STORAGE EXPRESS OPENS NEW PETERSBURG FACILITY

STORAGE EXPRESS celebrated the grand opening of its newest self-storage facility yesterday in Petersburg, Indiana. Members of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, Mayor John Craig and other community members attended the ceremony. Festivities continued at a launch party at JOE MAMA'S Pizza in downtown Petersburg. Petersburg radio station WBTO was on hand to broadcast live and celebrate with prizes and pizza. Prize drawings included complimentary storage spaces at the company's Princeton, Washington and Petersburg locations.

Jefferson Shreve, CEO of Storage Express, also launched the company's ADOPT A FRIEND campaign with a check presentation to the local animal rescue shelter PAWS OF PIKE COUNTY. Shreve and his employees are committed to supporting a variety of philanthropic efforts in the communities in which the facilities are located.

Storage Express owns and operates more than 70 self-storage properties across Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and Ohio. The company's main office and call center are located in Bloomington. Rentals are centralized out of the Bloomington office and customers contact the company via a toll-free telephone number that feeds into the call center (1-800-STORE-IT). Field representatives support operations in each Storage Express locale.
