GRAND OPENING EVENT
MARKS LAUNCH OF NEW BEDFORD BUSINESS

On Saturday, November 15, Bloomington-based Storage Express will celebrate the Grand Opening of its newest self-storage facility located on highway 37 next to Rusty's in Bedford, Indiana. The company owns and operates more than 70 properties in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and Ohio. Facilities are located in smaller towns and are served by Field Service Representatives working out of the company's Bloomington headquarters. Rental, administrative and marketing functions also are centralized in the Bloomington office. Storage Express has experienced healthy growth in all its markets, and owner Jeff Shreve, a native Hoosier and IU graduate, looks forward to serving the Bedford community.

Shreve and his staff invite the public to stop by and view the new, state of the art facilities during Saturday's Grand Opening event. Storage Express associates will be on-site to share information and answer questions about the company's self-storage services and features. Visitors can register for FREE service agreements with Storage Express and valuable prizes including COLTS tickets, Heavenly Ham certificates and Musgraves Orchard cider and apples. Complimentary DOMINOS PIZZA will be served and local music favorite Clayton Anderson will be on hand with his latest cd. A highlight of the event will be the presentation of a Storage Express contribution given to support the Bloomington Area Arts Council's Art After School program, now in its third year in elementary schools in Lawrence County. Administration from the Arts Council and the school system will be on hand for the presentation.

The Storage Express Grand Opening celebration gets underway Saturday, November 15, at NOON and will continue until 2pm. The business is located on Highway 37, just north of the 16th street intersection.
