Legal expert addresses legal pitfalls involving dementia

EDMOND, Okla. – Touchmark at Coffee Creek retirement community is hosting Jerry Shiles from Parman & Easterday law firm who will present legal issues for those living with dementia and how to prepare for the future.

A complimentary lunch will be held at noon. The event is open to the public at no charge, but space is limited. RSVPs may be made to 405-340-1975 by Oct. 3. Touchmark is located at 2801 Shortgrass Road in Edmond.

Shiles will address how to eliminate the risk of losing valuable Medicaid benefits and overcome governmental roadblocks in qualifying; the critical provisions every estate plan must have – and most don't – to protect a family's assets and how to guarantee personal care and financial affairs are managed as individuals/families desire.

Coauthor of a book on estate planning geared toward Oklahoma residents, Shiles is a frequent speaker on estate planning, appearing on television, radio and newspapers as well as speaking to organizations. He is a member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys and the American Academy of Estate Planning Attorneys.
