Welcome Cathy Cox!

Cathy grew up in Raleigh, NC and attended UNC at Chapel Hill. There she met her future husband and immediately moved to Texas. Cathy completed her psychology degree at UT and later earned a master's in child development. She started her career at South West Educational Development Laboratories analyzing research on what techniques work best in classrooms. During the Reagan years, she became the 1st female statistician for the Texas Education Agency analyzing standardized testing results and compiling reports later used for legislation. She later worked at the office of state comptroller Carol Rylander on her Education Research team. She enjoys classic literature and plans to start working on her writing again. Cathy has enjoyed doing her part to Keep Austin Weird and has no plans to slow down.

Thank you for helping us raise $500 in our homemade Dog Biscuit sales for our furry friends at Austin Dog Rescue!
