Touchmark Choir's Fargo Theatre performance to feature cross-generational talent

FARGO, N.D. – Several generations of voices will be taking the stage at the Fargo Theatre on Wednesday, May 16. The Touchmark Choir – an energetic ensemble of talented singers whose ages span 70 years – is back this spring with an evening of entertainment all music-lovers will enjoy.

The Touchmark Choir is unique for its harmony across generations. This year, the membership features its most senior member, 96-year-old Sunny Crahan, beside its youngest member, 26-year-old Anna Lawler. The 70 years between them, and the joy the choir brings to audiences, prove the power of music brings generations together.

Titled, “Thank You for the Music,” the concert will feature a variety of hit songs from 1910 – 1970, including favorites by Gershwin, Doris Day, Cole Porter, The Carpenters, Barry Manilow, Abba and many more. There is no charge for the concert, which is open to the public. The concert starts at 7 p.m. at The Fargo Theatre on Fargo’s Broadway Avenue. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

Consisting of nearly 30 Touchmark residents and staff members, the choir has been performing shows for the community for almost a decade. In addition to their annual performance at the Fargo Theatre, the Touchmark Choir also gives a fall concert and can be heard throughout the year singing for local schools and nonprofit organizations.

“The Touchmark Choir is proof that music can connect with people of all ages, and this year’s program, with its songs highlighting seven decades, is filled with music everyone loves and will recognize,” said Anne-Marie Fitz, Life Enrichment/Wellness Director at Touchmark.

Two local music directors, Dawn Papenfuss and Suzanne Schultz, volunteer to lead the choir, which rehearses once a week.
